Janus Remote Communication's Opens Online Store.

Aurora, IL – Janus Remote Communications, an International distributor of standard and custom M2M products for the wireless marketplace, opened its new web store today. The online store (located at www.janus-rc.com) will allow industrial customers to buy the company's various M2M products and services via the Internet.

The Janus online store will initially feature the products of two different M2M manufacturers – NavSync, a leader in High Sensitivity Timing and Navigational GPS products and Solutions, and Telit Wireless Solutions, Inc., the US-based M2M mobile technology arm of Telit Communications. Telit Communications designs and manufactures GSM/GPRS/UMTS and CDMA modules for all M2M marketplace applications.

“Janus offers more than ‘off-the-shelf’ product distribution. Our superior technical experience and expertise, as well as our exceptional customer service brings a comprehensive and unparalleled level of sales support to our customers,” states Dave Jahr, Sales Manager for Janus. “We understand exactly what our M2M customers require and strive to fully meet all their diverse needs.”

Daniel R Olp, CEO of Janus believes that “Our commitment to the M2M marketplace and remote data management makes the new online store facilities a logical path for assisting our customers to achieve their precise project goals, especially as online research and shopping become the every day norm. Olp goes on to state that “We are delighted to announce the opening of our online store and look forward to expanding the offerings of our line card partners and their products for the world M2M market.”
